

International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme Subject Brief

The arts: Music

First assessment 2022

The Diploma Programme (DP) is a rigorous pre-university course of study designed for students in the 16 to 19 age range. It is a broad-based two-year course that aims to encourage students to be knowledgeable and inquiring, but also caring and compassionate. There is a strong emphasis on encouraging students to develop intercultural understanding, open-mindedness, and the attitudes necessary for them to respect and evaluate a range of points of view.

The course is presented as six academic areas enclosing a central core. Students study two modern languages (or a modern language and a classical language), a humanities or social science subject, an experimental science, mathematics and one of the creative arts. Instead of an arts subject, students can choose two subjects from another area. It is this comprehensive range of subjects that makes the Diploma Programme a demanding course of study designed to prepare students effectively for university entrance. In each of the academic areas students have flexibility in making their choices, which means they can choose subjects that particularly interest them and that they may wish to study further at university.

Normally, three subjects (and not more than four) are taken at higher level (HL), and the others are taken at standard level (SL). The IB recommends 240 teaching hours for HL subjects and 150 hours for SL. Subjects at HL are studied in greater depth and breadth than at SL. In addition, three core elements—the extended essay, theory of knowledge and creativity, activity, service—are compulsory and central to the philosophy of the programme.

These IB DP subject briefs illustrate the following key course components.

I. Course description and aims

The Diploma Programme Music course (for first teaching from 2020) has been designed to prepare the 21st century music student for a world in which global musical cultures and industries are rapidly changing.

The course is grounded in the knowledge, skills and processes associated with the study of music and offers a strengthened approach to student creativity through practical, informed and purposeful explorations of diverse musical forms, practices and contexts. The course also ensures a holistic approach to learning, with the roles of performer, creator and researcher afforded equal importance in all course components.

The aims of the music course are to enable students to:

- explore a range of musical contexts and make links to, and between, different musical practices, conventions and forms of expression
- acquire, develop and experiment with musical competencies through a range of musical practices, conventions and forms of expression, both individually and in collaboration with others
- evaluate and develop critical perspectives on their own music and the work of others.

Alignment with DP arts courses

The curriculum moves into alignment with other DP arts courses, through the clear articulation of the balance between the theoretical and practical disciplines of music. A new set of assessment tasks that link directly to the processes and roles experienced in the curriculum have been developed. These robust tasks address the concept of holistic musical development by removing optionality (and thereby the possibility to specialize in one skill at the expense of others) and incorporating practical music-making into all tasks. Assessment tasks are now presented as coursework, balanced between internal and external assessment. There are three common components at SL and HL, with a discrete HL extension component which invites students to work within the parameters of real-life music industry practices.

Engagement with diverse musical material

The new course seeks to be inclusive of students with wide-ranging personal and cultural musical backgrounds. In place of prescribed musical content, students and teachers in the new course have the agency to personalise unique approaches to musical forms, genres and pieces. The exploration of diverse musical material is focused through the lenses of four areas of inquiry.

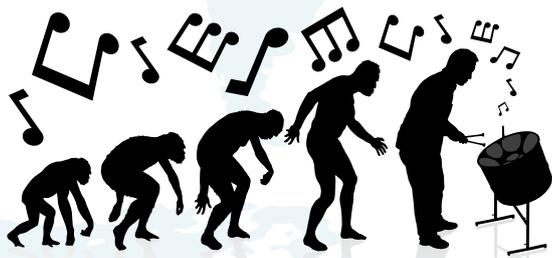

- Music for sociocultural and political expression
- Music for listening and performance,
- Music for dramatic impact, movement and entertainment
- Music technology in the digital age.

A framework for study and assessment

Engagement with these areas of inquiry takes place across three contexts—personal, local and global. These contexts invite students to move beyond familiar musical material (personal context), to experience music from the culture or community around them (local context), as well as engaging with previously unfamiliar music (global context). Combined with the contexts, the areas of inquiry offer a “matrix” onto which students can plot the variety of their musical encounters. This new flexibility is not only about choice in the learning, teaching and assessment—it is also about forging deep, life-long connections between students’ passions and interests and the wider world of music and music-making. All musical encounters are experienced in the roles of researcher, creator and performer, and are related through teaching and assessment to the processes of exploring, experimenting and presenting music. Academic rigour is assured through the requirement for students to critically analyse the music with which they engage, drawing information and conclusions which they then apply to their own practical music making through creating and performing.

What do students do in a music classroom?

Engage with a diverse range of music that will broaden their musical horizons and provide stimuli to expand their own music-making

Connect theoretical studies to practical work to gain a deeper understanding of the music they engage with.

Communicate and present music as researchers, creators and performers.

How are music students assessed?

Students at SL and HL submit the following common assessment tasks.

An exploration portfolio: Written work demonstrating engagement with, and understanding of, diverse musical material, along with practical exercises in creating and performing

An experimentation report: Written work in the form of a rationale and commentary that supports practical musical evidence of experimentation in creating and performing

A musical presentation: Finished works in creating and performing, supported by programme notes.

In addition, HL students will submit the following project.

A collaborative project: A continuous multimedia presentation documenting a real-life project, containing evidence of the project proposal, the process and evaluation, and the realized project, or curated selections of it.

By the end of the course students will have:

- broadened their musical horizons through engagement with diverse musical material
- analysed a wide range of music
- engaged with music technology as a compulsory part of the course
- gained confidence in the essential processes associated with music-making
- developed as holistic musicians with experience as creators and performers

- developed both independent and collaborative working skills
- honed their inquiry, reflection and critical thinking skills.

The course is ideal for students who ...

- are interested in both the practical and theoretical aspects of music-making
- respond to a creative approach to composition and performance
- value collaboration
- wish to experience a DP arts course
- plan to study music in university or college.

II. Curriculum model overview

Syllabus component	Teaching hours
	SL	HL
Exploring music in context Students will learn how to engage with a diverse range of music that will broaden their musical horizons and provide stimuli to expand their own music-making. They will demonstrate diversity and breadth in their exploration by engaging with music from the areas of inquiry in personal, local and global contexts.	45	45
Experimenting with music Students connect theoretical studies to practical work and gain a deeper understanding of the music they engage with. Through this theoretical and practical work as researchers, creators and performers, they will learn to experiment with a range of musical material and stimuli from the areas of inquiry across local and global contexts.	45	45
Presenting music Students learn to practise and prepare finished pieces that will be performed or presented to an audience. In working towards completed musical works, they expand their musical identity, demonstrate their level of musicianship, and learn to share and communicate their music as researchers, creators and performers.	60	60
The contemporary music maker (HL only) Music at higher level (HL) builds on the learning of musical competencies and challenges students to engage with the musical processes in settings of contemporary music-making. For the HL component, students plan and collaboratively create a project that draws on the competencies, skills and processes in all of the musical roles of the music course and is inspired by real-life practices of music-making.	n/a	90
